

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I sincerely urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee. I'm not sure whose hair-brained idea this was or where it came from but they sure aren't in touch with mainstream America. If you feel you need more money, take it out of your own bureaucratic pockets. There's probably enough floating around in your department to make up for what you all think is necessary. Stay out of America's personal pocketbooks and stop playing with our safety and security.

KEEP THE USF FAIR!

Sincerely,

Daniel Winters
